

The PARTY of TREASON

The Republican Party recently announced a nationwide membership drive. There are many potential Republican voters out there, they believe. They just have to develop a means get them to the polls. As ordinary as this may seem to a political party, there is more to their objective than most of the casual conservative voters that fall in line with Republicans either realize, or care to know.

Republican leadership will do all they can to be more inclusive. They will fight for the non-white Hispanic vote NOT by educating minorities on the merits of Republicanism. Instead, they have deliberately chosen to change the core values of the Republican Party to match those of Negroes, Asians, Jews, non-white Hispanics, and biracial people. The Republican Party's crystal ball tells them that white people will soon be a minority in the U.S.- that they are already a minority in the most populated states- and that- it's good business to shun white Christian beliefs and attitudes.

Some remember when the Democrats were staunchly behind segregation- and some whites still hold on to their Democratic Party affiliation in the belief that it is still styled after the old Southern Democratic system. The fact that the Democrats saw the changes America was going through and jumped on the multicultural bandwagon has, somehow escaped their attention. But we shouldn't condemn these people who vote the "same way their granddaddy did". To many of these people, and rightly so, the Republican Party appears to be a strong supporter of corporate takeover, free trade, etc. And the Republican Party has a reputation of non-commitment to the general needs of society. It is confusing to say the least, to the casual semi-informed apolitical citizen- when they contemplated, "Should a person vote Republican or Democrat?"

What cost many, if not most, Democratic candidates their last election was their very visible betrayal of white Christians. Many mainstream Christians however, will ignore the white racial aspect of the Democratic betrayal and focus only on the many instances of hatred directed at Christians. These people are entirely supportive of the Republican Party's new voter drive-even when that effort is directed toward minorities. They just don't understand the importance of white Christian leadership. Catering to non-whites is only viewed as a smart political move to insure that the Democrats don't win back control of Congress, or the White House. Their plan is to beat the Democrats at their own game.

Armstrong Williams, a black political commentator and former aid to Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., was among more than a dozen negroes who met with Republican National Committee Chairman Marc Racicot and Senate Majority Bill Frist, R- Tenn., to discuss how the GOP can put blacks in office. A move that is seen by the Republican Party as increasing it's standing among minorities. "The Republican Party has to realize that it cannot be lily white any longer", Williams said. "Change must start within our own house. And we were here today to do some house cleaning."

Racicot said the GOP would be doing a lot more to improve its image among minorities, including a significant increase in monetary support for black candidates. As Williams had said, "It starts with the faces." The GOP must be able to offer a wide slate of candidates of color in order to win the minority vote.

President Bush is doing his best to walk both sides of the fence. He realizes that the Republican Party is in the midst of a tremendous transition. If the GOP goes to far left they may risk alienating white votes-currently their major base of support. To throw a bone to their loyal lap dog-the white voters- they have recently backed a move to remove race criteria from college admissions. Most notably is the case with the University of Michigan, in which the U.S. Supreme Court declared that consideration of race for college admission is unlawful. However, Bush is skillfully addressing the minority education issue where it counts the most- Cold Hard Cash.

The President's fiscal 2004 budget will increase spending to Historically Black Colleges, Black Graduate Institutions and Hispanic Serving Institutions by a total of $371 million dollars. Forget about historically white colleges and universities. All they get are desegregation orders. Bush's No Child Left Behind program; designed to help prepare small children for elementary school, will once again funnel millions of dollars into minority populated areas.

RNC Chairman Racicot said regarding Black History Month, "Under the leadership of President Bush the RNC (Republican National Committee) will continue its work to recruit and train more minority candidates and to create a colorblind society... This month and beyond, we remain committed to further the vision of Abraham Lincoln and Dr. Martin Luther King." At least we can agree with Racicot on one point.

We too would like to see the vision of Abraham Lincoln's post-war dream. Racicot, as do most Americans have very little knowledge about Abraham Lincoln. Those who love him do so because they really know nothing about his segregationist views. Those that hate him likewise have only Jewish manipulated history to base their "facts" on. The Jewish slandering of Lincoln and their continual assault on his character and their outright lies about him are due to the fact that they played both sides of the Northern/Southern issue, just as they still do today. Lincoln's bold plan included a return to constitutional currency (the reason the Jews hated him and ultimately had him assassinated) and to return all negroes to Africa (this didn't play well with the Jews either- they have a history of using the negro as a wedge to divide and corrupt white societies into factions that are more easily controlled-facilitating their taking advantage of the situation and working it to their being in a position –behind the scenes with goal of control of power and money.) The plan Lincoln had was to “emancipated and repatriate” the Negro. [During the final year and half during the “Civil War” negroes from the coast of the Carolinas were actually repatriated to the land know as Liberia. Take notice of the flag of Liberia. It looks just like the U.S. flag but has only one white star in the blue field. It is interesting to note that this country which is run by the descendents of “freed and returned slaves” is one of the most brutal and dictatorial of all African nations; even the practice of slavery continues within it’s boarders today.]

Lincoln was apposed to integration and race mixing and stated these facts many times in public record. He abhorred the fact that there were so many negroes on American soil; living in such close proximity to whites and supplying cheap labor-just as the Mexican/Central Americans do today. The GOP’s efforts to be an inclusive party would be laughable if it were not so dangerous. The Republican national website boldly announces: Democratic Senators block first Hispanic to serve on U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

Funny? Here we have he GOP attempting to tell America that it is they, ...NOT the Democrats who are standing strong behind America’s minority population. The article continues to applaud the many fine qualities of this “Hispanic First”. They proudly cite all his legal qualifications, past posts, etc. They pleasingly report that he doesn’t let his personal opinion on a political matter get in the way of his job. (I thought that is, essentially, what defines a hypocrite). But, the most startling aspect of Manual Estrada is his record toward the pro-life movement. Remember, that a gigantic base of support for the Republican Party comes from Christians who believe in the dignity and value of the unborn. Yet, to get their token Hispanic and all those votes by flaunting him in front of the Hispanic population at election time- the GOP is willing to betray the unborn and their prime support base.

The GOP brags on their website: “While he worked at the Clinton Justice Department, Estrada filed an amicus brief on behalf of the government on the same side of the case as the National Organization of Women. The Supreme Court unanimously agreed with Estrada in NOW vs. Schielder that the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act (RICO) could be applied to abortion protesters.”

Unbelievable! Or is it? The GOP would rather risk losing their pro-life constituents- many who found themselves and their organizations bankrupt as well as doing time for picketing abortion clinics- than risk losing the flood of non-white Hispanic voters that looms on the horizon.

Obviously, only a fool would say that every single Democratic politician is a traitor, or that every single Republican politician is a traitor. But the fact of the betrayal of the party leadership speaks for itself. The only good reason to be involved with either party is to gain experience that can be put to use down the road in the third party that ultimately will address the issues of white Christians. (I leave it to the reader to decide which party they believe that is.) Sadly however, many good people think it is so wonderful that the Republicans are “in power” and they let their guard down. Why? The Republican Party is as bad if not worse than the Democrats- because they are more deceitful. A vote for a candidate of any third party is better than a vote for the two in power, as it will help weaken the two party system. Yes, there is a boogey man in the closet, but it might not be the most obvious- look a little harder and you’ll see a Republican hiding in the shadows.

*Note: The term “Hispanic” was created by the United States government to classify the people of western hemisphere nations whose primary language is Spanish. A majority of the population in all of these countries is non-white. However, there are white people in these countries and they too, by the original definition, are considered “Hispanic”. Things have changed to a point where in today’s anti-white, anti-Christian political climate the term Hispanic is generally used in reference to the non-white portion of society. This is the reason we refer to the non-white and white portions of the “Hispanic population”. What is most interesting is that the U.S. Justice Department uses the “Hispanic” category ONLY when they are victims, but posts an asterisk “*” for the commission of crimes by “Hispanics”. Hispanics convicted of crimes are classified as “white” thus falsely raising the number of crimes committed by “whites” and keeping the crimes committed by Hispanics as zero or “*”. It seems that our politicians still manage to have things two ways. Check out the Justice Department’s statistics on crime yourself & see what the politicians of both parties don’t want to have to explain.*
