

THE KNIGHTS PARTY YOUTH CORP

If you are white and young in America, you ... more than anyone else,.. are likely to know about discrimination. You are faced with it every day.

You are reaping all of the "wonderful benefits" given to you by the baby boomer generation.

Many young people today have to get outside jobs to help mom and dad with the bills and when it's time for college there is no White College fund. If your parents are able to scrape up enough for college or if they are "lucky" enough to be poor so you can get a Pell grant you might just find out your spot was given to a non-white because of Affirmative Action. Of course, once you do get to college there are no Caucasian Student Unions or European Culture Clubs and don't even think about starting one just because there are tons of them for Blacks, Asians, or what ever. If you were daring enough to try, you would be called all kinds of horrible names. Why, you would wonder. You just wanted to have a club like everybody else.

Welcome to the world of hypocrisy and illogical thought.

Thirty years ago young people were faced with many hard questions and circumstances. The Vietnam War was taking the precious lives of our young people, both men and women. Christianity was being attacked as being old fashion and for prudes. Sex, Drugs, and Rock -n- Roll were glamorized. World peace and racial unity were being touted as progressive and about time.

The young people of that time had some very important decisions to make. Some got caught in the web and were proud to be on the side of so-called tolerance. The people with the big bucks who owned the TV stations, radio stations, and newspapers and magazines were just like they are today. They think normal white heterosexual people are weird. Imagine that! To them it's cool for guys to have boyfriends and girls to have girlfriends. Abortion is just another type of birth control. Its fun to laugh at white people and call them names in sit-coms. The people who own the entertainment industry are like the people in Sodom and Gomorrah. Many young people today are becoming aware of this. They see through the code words used in the media. But many of the young people thirty years got sucked into the utopian dream, which in itself isn't a bad idea. After all who doesn't want peace and harmony?

The only problem is that many young people were told that the way to have peace and harmony was to take things away from white people and give them to nonwhite people. Doesn't sound much like equality does it?

It was a time of social revolution. A lot of young people may not have actually gotten involved in demonstrations and rallies, but even those who didn't were affected; most of them negatively. Those young people, the activists of yesterday, are the leaders today. They were victims of their generation and now unfortunately they in turn are looking for new followers.

Today however, they aren't looking to win the sexual revolution. It was already won and today AIDS is the prize. Abortion is available everywhere and infanticide is common. The schools are already integrated and gay rights is a popular issue. Today the fight is over you, the current generation of young white people. It really is like the movie The Matrix, when the "agent Smith" programs, are trying to find and destroy the hero, Neo before he is "unplugged", and fully aware of what the matrix truly is. Remember, white women of child bearing age make up only slightly less than 2% (yes, two percent) of the worlds population. We are the true minority in the world, and they are coming after you with the taste of victory on their tongues. By promoting the homosexual / racemixing agenda they are deliberately attempting genocide on whites. Like Neo, you are the ones that can stop them. You can unplug from the anti-white propaganda fed to you via pop culture, TV, and radio, and the print media.

Many of your parents can't understand what it means to have White pride. They were a victim and weren't allowed. They are still being victimized by the entertainment industry and the news industry. They are being told the wonderful world they fought for (they call this wonderful?) is in dire straights because their liberal ideas are being threatened. Realize this, they've been fishing for you the whole time. After all you were primed right from the get go with shows like Sesame Street telling you how great it was to go to an integrated school. Cartoons like Cat-Dog, Chicken and the Cow prepped you for race mixing. But you soon learned the truth when you saw the hatred for white people in your school. It didn't just come from non-whites. It was in the text books and your teachers talked about it. Then they put the hook in your mouth: It seems they would have us believe that white people are stupid, uncaring, un-cool, hateful oppressors who can't dance. Is it any wonder so many young people are experimenting with interracial dating? Who wants to date a loser and if white people are the buffoons they are made out to be? They've punk you into believing that it would make perfect sense to go out with the more desirable black guy or the cute little Asian girl, haven't they? What they have done is sunk the hook and reeled you in.

It's sad. So many young people have lost their racial instincts. They have lost pride in their race and they are the modern victims of the anti-white propaganda mill.

But just as there were those young people thirty years ago who made the difficult decision to give up on their White Christian heritage in search of a bi-racial, bi-sexual utopia in a lava lamp, others made the opposite decision. They are heroes to this generation of white youth. They didn't let the labeling and the Christian bashing and the hateful way television made them out to be get them down. They saw through the smoke screen and they persevered.

Today it's hard, real hard to say you are White and proud. Your parent's may think you are crazy. Hopefully they made the right decision when they were young and now they can be looked upon as heroes by this generation. They are heroes because they taught you to be compassionate toward your white brothers and sisters and to be proud of your roots and your history.

Unfortunately, these types of parent's are in the minority not the majority. Their complete generation was almost won over. So if you are White and proud more than likely your parent's are freaked out thinking you are going to start sporting the latest in camouflage and buying hand grenades instead of denim and CDs. Don't blame them. Remember they are victims of a one-world, one-color philosophy.

Young people today can't let the lack of support from their family get them down in the dumps. It may not be easy but it doesn't make it any less right. There is a lot to be said about the sins of the youth today. Some say they have their head in a cloud or in the bottom of a bottle. It may be true of many. But there are those who speak of ideals, who can't figure out what's so great about two guys cuddling up for a romantic evening (ugh), who find it odd that those who speak of rights are quick to end the rights of the unborn, and there are those who understand the concepts of genocide and how interracial mixing promotes it and the destruction of the white race.

The young people today have an awesome responsibility. They can look at the last generation and see the mistakes that were made and how America has ended up because of the decisions made by the baby-boomers and decide to make a positive change or they can fall dutifully in line with the one-world types. For a lot of young people it's too late. They have already fallen for the whole homosexual, race mixing, and anti-white ploy. But a few will dare to say no to the establishment and will brave into a world of heritage, of love for one's people, for wholesome Christian conduct. They will be an asset to their people. They will stay in school, get to college however they can, educate themselves, surround themselves by positive thoughts and work and study hard. They will be heroes for tomorrow's generation. Perhaps, there'll be a generation where you aren't sneered at by the establishment because you prefer to be around White straight people proud of their bloodline.

It's tough enough to be a young person today. Can you imagine what it's going to be like for your kids someday? It won't be as far off as you think!
